In this edition of the NAHSE-DVC's Pulse, we reflect on the Chapter's accomplishments in 2016. From hosting exciting educational and networking events, to proudly representing the NAHSE-DVC at the national organization's Annual Education Conference; NAHSE-DVC made significant strides this year to enhance its local presence and national recognition.

2016 was a remarkable year for the NAHSE-DVC and we could not have achieved our many successes without you! As professionals who lead very demanding lives, your support at every capacity is greatly appreciated! Your continuous support encourages our leadership, pushes us to build stronger foundations, and helps us to increase the NAHSE-DVC footprint. Continue to spread the word, become involved, and invite your friends and colleagues to join NAHSE!

It is a tremendous pleasure to serve you as your NAHSE-DVC Executive Board and we look forward to seeing you this new year! Check out our next event on January 22, 2017 at Fox & Hound in King of Prussia, PA!

Sincerely,

The NAHSE-DVC Executive Board

Looking back...

Mid-Careerist Panel

In collaboration with La Salle University

In April, NAHSE-DVC held its first Mid-Careerist Panel Event on career transitioning and the value of professional associations. Panelists were Chinwe Onyekere, MPH, Associate Administrator, Lankenau Medical Center; Kenneth Munroe, MBA, MSOD, Director of Operations, Penn Medicine; Christopher A. Cullom, Assistant Executive Hospital Director,

Penn Medicine; Jacquelynn Y. Orr, FACHE, Secretary, NAHSE-DVC, DrPH Candidate, Drexel University; and

Richard Jacovini, Division President, HomeCare & Hospice, Main Line Health.

Emerging Leaders Health Care Summit

Co-Sponsored by Temple Health

In November, NAHSE DVC held its annual “Emerging Leaders Healthcare Summit” event for students and early careerists to network and connect with seasoned leaders in the healthcare industry.

The following are statements from students who were motivated by the experience:

“One on one time with these individuals and learning about their roads to success was a huge learning opportunity. It motivated me more to put myself out there and never give up on my goals!”

“The Leadership Summit provided me with an invaluable opportunity to network and receive guidance from prominent leaders in the surrounding healthcare industry.”

“The NAHSE DVC Leadership Summit provided me with an amazing opportunity to connect with current healthcare leaders in the greater Philadelphia area and other students and young professionals hoping to enter into the healthcare field. As a senior undergraduate student studying public health and healthcare management, the meaningful advice and connections I made at the event were invaluable!”

Career Development

NAHSE DVC Virtual Campaign

NAHSE DVC embarked on its first virtual campaign in mid-August 2016. The campaign's goal was to engage individuals via a social platform by highlighting healthcare careerists in the chapters network. For more a more in depth look at each highlight, visit our LinkedIn page!

What advice would you give someone seeking growth?

Darren Brownlee – Assistant Administrator of Ambulatory & Access Operations, John Hopkins Medicine
“Allow NAHSE to educate, engage and empower you!”

Dr. Nicole S. Huff, DHA, MBA, CHC, CHSP - Chief Compliance & Privacy Officer, St. Luke's University Health Network

“Don't be afraid to take risks. You should be able to move to a location outside of your comfort zone. “

Symone Robinson - Billing Representative, Humedco Corporation & HIM Student, Peirce College

“Every position serves a purpose; none is more essential than the last.”

LaVelle King, MPH, CPH - Law Student, Villanova University School of Law

“Do your research and share your desire with the right people. You need someone who will share honest and sage advice with you about your experience.”

Kenneth J. Munroe , MBA, MSOD - Director of Operations, PennMedicine, UPenn Health System

“...always find opportunities to help others in their journey, remembering those times where you were at a fork in the road or at the store counter just a few cents short. “

DVC Collaboration with The Health Career Academy

NAHSE DVC partnered with the Health Career Academy by adding a group of brilliant healthcare management professionals to build on the program's existing diversity of knowledge and expertise. The NAHSE DVC strives to increase these high students' exposure to and understanding of non-clinical careers in healthcare. Visit www.nahsedvc.com/volunteer-with-dvc for more information.

The Annual Conference

Ready, Set, Lead...Transforming Healthcare
October 2016 – Las Vegas, NV

NAHSE-DVC continues to work diligently to achieve the mission of the organization by effectively representing the chapter on a national scale. Four of the five NAHSE-DVC executive board members attended the conference and achieved the following:

- Marilyn Adibu and Reyna Florentino participated in the Health Leadership Case Challenge, and Marilyn's team took first place!
- Shonalie Roberts sat on the National Scholarship and Awards Committee and participated in the Career Fair, on behalf of Main Line Health.
- Jacquelyn Y. Orr, FACHE received the Ellis Bonner Scholarship and served as a judge for the Student Case Competition.
- DVC was recognized as 1 of 15 chapters (out of 28) to sponsor the National Conference.

The Annual Cliday Scholarship Dinner

Many gathered at Temple Health's Corporate Campus to celebrate an evening of scholarship and achievement. Keynote Speaker, Suzanne Beauvoir-Jackson, FACHE, CEO of HCA Affiliated John Randolph Medical Center, shared her journey of resilience and balance. Fred Carey, CEO of Sayre Health and founding member of the DVC, shared a historical perspective about the life and legacy of David L. Rayon. Three exceptional students were recognized and awarded scholarships. Thanks to our event sponsors: Penn Medicine, AmeriHealth Caritas, Jefferson Health, Temple Health, Illuminaire, and Al & Linnette Black.
